Customer Reviews

I didn't think I could be disappointed by a map. It's just paper and plastic, right? The "authors" constructed this map by opening Google Maps on their computer, taking screenshots of different areas of the city, putting those screenshots into a word document, and printing it onto regular printer paper. That's it. There's no legend, the pages aren't laminated, and - this is the funniest part to me - the resolution on the maps was blown up to get it to the right size on the screen and there are JPEG artifacts everywhere so all the text is fuzzy. Trust me, any map you pick up for free at a visitor's center or some government office in town will be higher quality than this. Threw it away within two or three minutes after opening it.
